Meeting Cathy Cassidy

12 girls from years 5 and 6 were thrilled to be among 250 Hounslow school girls to meet author Cathy Cassidy, where after a talk by her, they were able to get books signed. Next month it's the boys turn when they will meet author Jonny Zucker.

The British Museum Trip

When we first arrived we got in quite a queue for 5 or 10 minutes. Later we finally got to the stairs then as quick as a flash we zoomed down and deposited our stuff. After we met one of the museum guides with her group. Two of the helpers' names were Rachel. She introduced us to them then we went to the art gallery. She explained about Buddha when we arrived. The museum guide said he was a prince from a kingdom and left the kingdom. He gave up his wealth for knowledge and compassion. Later, after that she gave out tablets and cameras. She explained how to use them. We took our first shot, well Abdullah did - he had the camera. The tablet was used to show us what pictures to take in the gallery. Later we ended up taking no pictures so we had to restart - luckily we had time. We only got to the recording bit then it was lunch time.

Two hours later - it took some time before our tummies were full. We met the tour guide again and went to the computer room. Next we went on the computers but before that the guide explained to us how to use a program called Glogster so when we were on the computers we made a headline and decorated it. We then picked a background and an image. Abdullah accidentally logged out of Glogster and everything had gotten deleted. We asked a helper to log us back in. Then we did it again after all that it was time to go. We left the room, got our stuff and left.

Bonus bit - Miss Leung was emailed with the Glogster posters. Our one wasn't so good because we didn't have enough time to finish. My personal best one was Skyla and Bethan's as well as Nikhil's one.
